The University of North Carolina
1911-12

“... a center of education born of the revolution, ready to serve state and nation in peace or war . . .”

Between these covers there is an attempt to record some of the activity in the small but bustling village of Chapel Hill during the year 1945-46. The University of North Carolina has stepped out of its war role and reassumed its peace time tasks. For the most part this book was compiled during a year of peace, yet with peace have come many problems which have tested the stamina and initiative of Carolina's men and women. Housing has been a major problem since two thousand veterans have returned to complete an education interrupted by the war. The Administration has worked overtime to solve the numerous problems of reconversion. Student government and student publications have suffered a shortage of the experienced men needed to maintain the Carolina tradition of government by the students. Somehow through all the confusion we have managed to complete another year at Chapel Hill, in many respects one of the most difficult, yet at the same time one of the most enjoyable.

The Law Building
between Saunders and Bynum

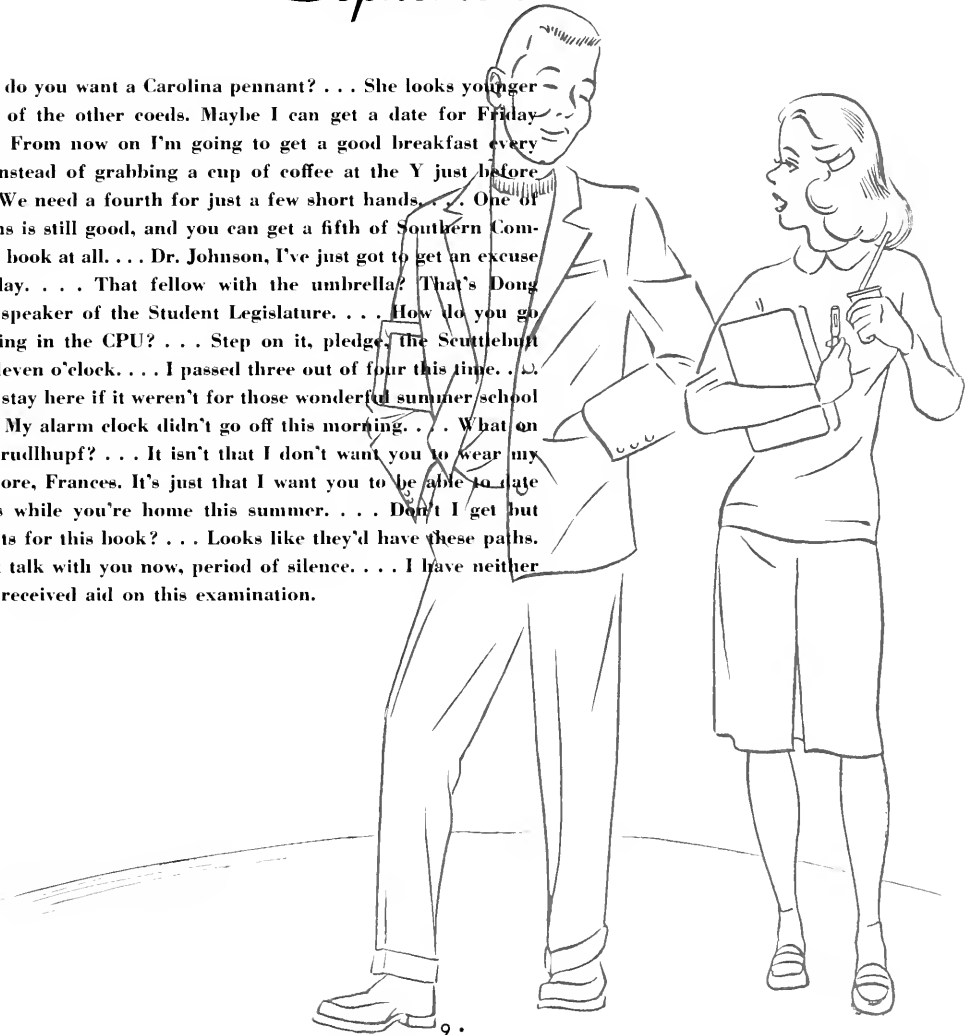

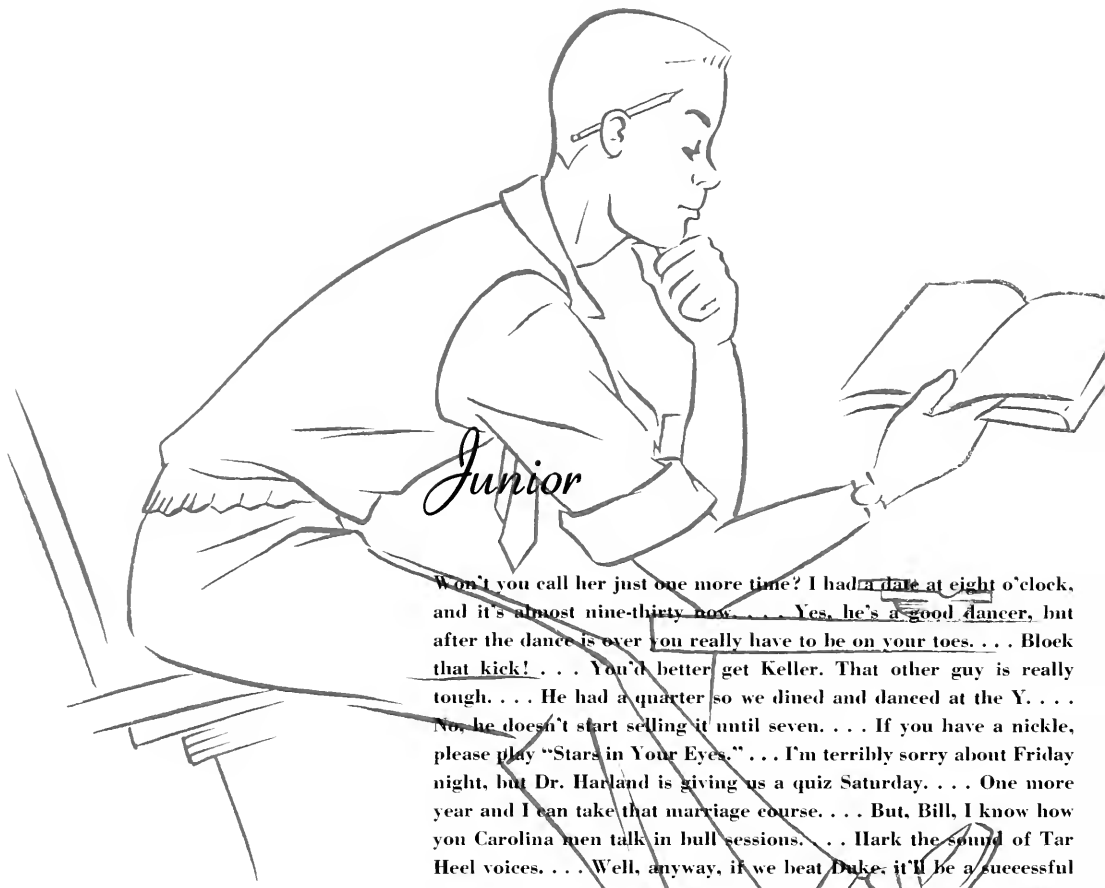

Freshman

Is that the Chapel Hill bus station? . . . Mister, I want to fix my classes so I won't have one at eight o'clock or on Saturday . . . I don't think I want to take phys ed. . . . Can't do anything here without standing in line. . . . Which way is Saunders Hall? . . . It's sort of hard to get a date around here. . . . I got an "A" rating. . . . Did you hear the one that Pete Mullis told in hygiene class today? . . . Yeah, I pledged KA. . . . Everybody in this town must have a dog. . . . It doesn't tell you on here which are the University Party candidates. . . . That's Charlie Vance. He's president of the student body. . . . This place is full of letters: IRC, CPU, PU, SP, UCP, HPB. . . . Broken leg, sore throat or dandruff, you still get penicillin at 10, 1, 4 and 7. . . . Wonder why they call it the Twenty-Four Below Club? . . . Won't it ever stop raining? . . . You remember him. He played the harmonica when we first came here. . . . Have you been orientated yet? . . . Now that the war's over they're finally going to draft me. . . . My wife and kids are still back home. I haven't found an apartment yet. . . . We had an honor system in my high school too. They say that it really works here. . . . What branch of the service were you in? . . . I was a freshman in 1940, too.

Sophomore

Mary Lou, do you want a Carolina pennant? . . . She looks younger than most of the other coeds. Maybe I can get a date for Friday night. . . . From now on I'm going to get a good breakfast every morning instead of grabbing a cup of coffee at the Y just before class. . . . We need a fourth for just a few short hands. . . . One of my coupons is still good, and you can get a fifth of Southern Comfort for no book at all. . . . Dr. Johnson, I've just got to get an excuse for Saturday. . . . That fellow with the umbrella? That's Dong Hunt, the speaker of the Student Legislature. . . . How do you go about getting in the CPU? . . . Step on it, pledge. The Scuttlebutt closes at eleven o'clock. . . . I passed three out of four this time. . . . I wouldn't stay here if it weren't for those wonderful summer school coeds. . . . My alarm clock didn't go off this morning. . . . What on earth is Strudlhupf? . . . It isn't that I don't want you to wear my pin any more, Frances. It's just that I want you to be able to date other boys while you're home this summer. . . . Don't I get but twenty cents for this book? . . . Looks like they'd have these paths. . . . I can't talk with you now, period of silence. . . . I have neither given nor received aid on this examination.

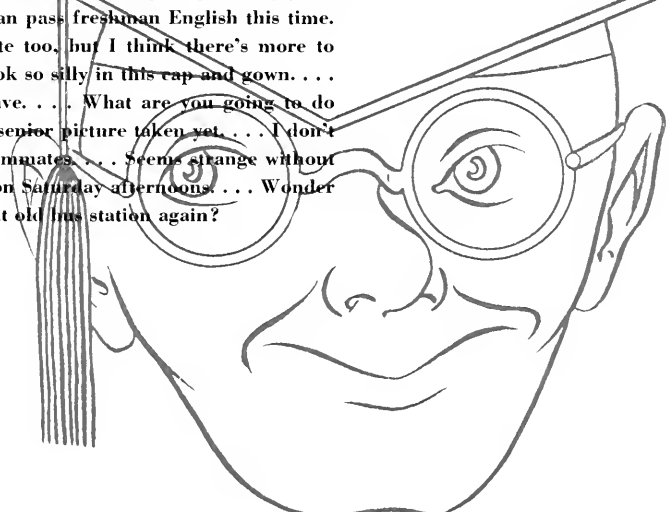

Junior

Won't you call her just one more time? I had a date at eight o'clock, and it's almost nine-thirty now. . . . Yes, he's a good dancer, but after the dance is over you really have to be on your toes. . . . Block that kick! . . . You'd better get Keller. That other guy is really tough. . . . He had a quarter so we dined and danced at the Y. . . . No, he doesn't start selling it until seven. . . . If you have a nickle, please play "Stars in Your Eyes." . . . I'm terribly sorry about Friday night, but Dr. Harland is giving us a quiz Saturday. . . . One more year and I can take that marriage course. . . . But, Bill, I know how you Carolina men talk in bull sessions. . . . Hark the sound of Tar Heel voices. . . . Well, anyway, if we beat Duke, it'll be a successful season. . . . From now on I'm going to do my assignments every day. . . . I wonder when our laundry will be back. . . . So this is the famous Arboretum. . . . Chapel Hill is the most beautiful place in the world in the Spring. . . . I guess I'm a junior, but I might be a senior. Haven't really known what class I was in since I was a freshman. . . . We went to a party at a place called Shorty's. W.C. was never like this! . . . I think I'll start writing a column for the Tar Heel.

Senior

Sometimes I wondered if I'd ever make it. . . . We have more and more coeds every year, and he still hasn't fired that gun. . . . No, I'd rather have Doctor Woodhouse. . . . If elected to office, I shall strive at all times to strengthen student government and the honor code. . . . Yackety yack, hoo ray, yackety yack, hoo ray, Carolina varsities, boom rah, oh well!! . . . I can't cash it now, but they've gone to the bank for money. . . . Nobody but a fool would have kicked at a time like that. . . . Yeah, she's an import from W.C. . . . Carolina's getting back to what it was before the war with all the old boys coming back. . . . These freshmen look younger every year. . . . I'll graduate in March if I can pass freshman English this time. . . . I could have made Phi Beta too, but I think there's more to college than just books. . . . I look so silly in this cap and gown. . . . You know, I sort of hate to leave. . . . What are you going to do now? . . . No, I haven't had my senior picture taken yet. . . . I don't like a single one of my four roommates. . . . Seems strange without all those Pre-Flights downtown on Saturday afternoons. . . . Wonder how long it'll be before I see that old bus station again?

To Dr. Louis

A note of gratitude goes to Dr. Louis R. Wilson for whom we dedicate the fifty-sixth volume of the Yackety Yack, official yearbook of the students at the University of North Carolina. Through undergraduate years until the present Dr. Louis Round Wilson has, in a quiet unassuming way, pushed for a greater, a better University. First editor of the Alumni Review, organizer of both the Extension Division and the University Press and secretary of the Graham Memorial building fund are but a few of his many contributions toward progress for the University. Building the University library to the second largest in the South has been his outstanding achievement along with being recognized as one of the foremost library authorities in the nation. Now Professor of Library Science and Administration at the University of North Carolina, Dr. Wilson continues to put his heart and soul into anything connected with betterment of the University.

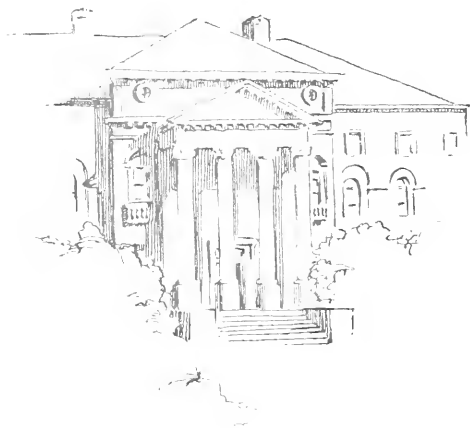

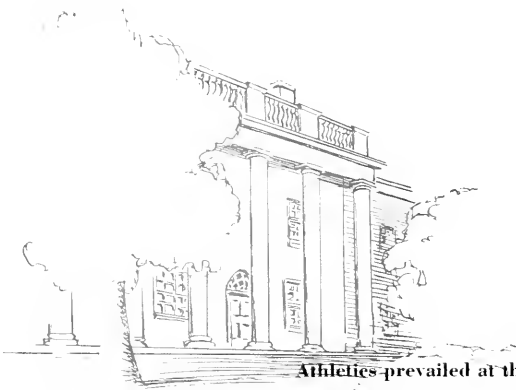

We went to classes although we didn't know exactly whether or not we were sophomores or seniors. We watched floods of freshmen pour into the University along with many veterans and their wives. Med school men took their classes seriously, trekking back and forth to Durham hospitals. In general there were classes of all sorts, but there was a great need for organization of classes in particular. Class rooms swelled with the largest attendance in many years.

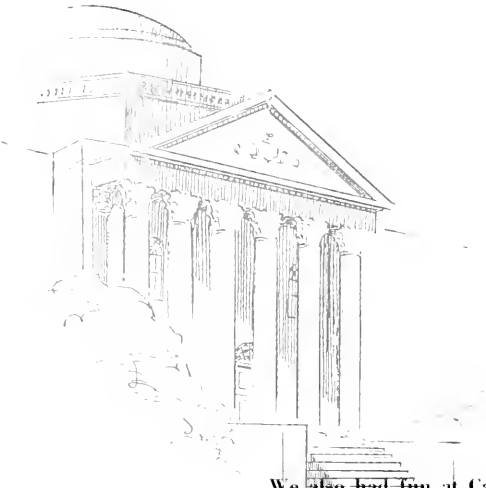

Though academic work proved more than enough for some, there were those who found themselves knee deep in politics, publications and committee meetings. Extra-curricular life at Carolina lived on as the midnight oil burned constantly in Graham Memorial, the operations center for student government, campus organizations and student publications. Students continued to govern themselves by upholding the Carolina Honor Code which has been no little task with the large turnover of students.

Athletics prevailed at the University. Carolina men and women continued to get excited about a Carolina victory, but 1945 didn't prove to be the year to heat the Duke Blue Devils in football. The return of Carl Snavely as head football coach and packed stands at the Duke game brought back pre-war memories and marked even a greater interest in the rivalry. Old Carolina men who donned the Blue and White appeared on the campus, after serving on the battlefronts, ready to fight on the sports field once again for the Tar Heel cause.

We also had fun at Carolina. Between-class-confabs at the Y will be always a memory as will the dance week-ends, fraternity parties and Graham Memorial functions. Sadie Hawkins day was revived this year, and students cast their books aside and enjoyed playing Lil' Abner for a day. Between labs there was usually time enough to take in the local cinema . . . topped off with a visit to Danziger's for some coffee and doughnuts. Veterans swung into social life by organizing their own recreation club. There weren't enough coeds for all . . . so waiting at the bus station for "my import" became a familiar sight.

..... to Dr. Frank

A university, geared for war through four and a half years, started reconversion and faced the problems that came with peace. UNC's traditions of good will, liberality and democratic ideals, half-neglected during the wartime speed-up program, needed a champion. When the needs were clear we turned to the personification of Carolina's spirit. We, students and faculty alike, looked to you, Dr. Frank.

Administration

The year brought unprecedented administrative problems. Each new day brought a new question that demanded an immediate answer. The year demanded a hard-working and efficient administrator with foresight; Carolina presented Chancellor Robert B. House.

Carolina men from the youngster fresh from high school to the thirty-year-old vet with his wife and children found an understanding and patient adviser in their dean, Ernest L. Mackie.

Carolina coeds had many problems, found helpful adviser in Dean M. H. Stacy who affably but sternly sought the best for University women.

Deans OF

"...those who have the task of guiding the academic life of University men and women..."

Long before registration day and the actual start of classes, the administrative officials spend many hours planning class schedules and the general academic agenda for the student body. They find the needs of every student and attempt to meet those educational demands. The welfare of each and every student at the University of North Carolina is their foremost desire. Their offices are swarmed six days a week by students . . . men and women who seek answers to many problems of varying sorts. When the University served its war role, these men and women in the administration did their part. Now that reconversion has brought many new problems, the Deans continue their role of service to Carolina men and women and to the University of North Carolina.

"A few of those

S. T. EMORY . . . One of the fairest and friendliest men on the faculty, soft-spoken Dr. Emory illustrates his geographic interpretations of current events with maps that he admits aren't too well drawn.

W. A. OLSEN . . . The microphone in E44 worries his students at first, but when the course is over they know a little about speaking and more about finding something to say.

SAM SELDEN . . . The easy-going dramatic arts prof is a campus favorite. His students call him Sam and know that he will always take work late if that means getting better work.

GORO DEEB . . . The fundamentals of political science mixed well with class discussions on the latest political developments have placed Deeb's courses among the leaders on registration day.

WILLIAM WELLS . . . A sympathetic and helpful teacher whom his students consider a real friend. He has something to say and knows how to say it and make other people listen.

SKIPPER COFFIN . . . The journalism department's man with a cigar and a story for every occasion has taught his students a lot about spelling and using the "guts of the language."

PAUL E. SHEARIN . . . His laboratory is his home, and he insists upon precise work. In his quiet way he teaches physics students the answers by asking them well-chosen questions.

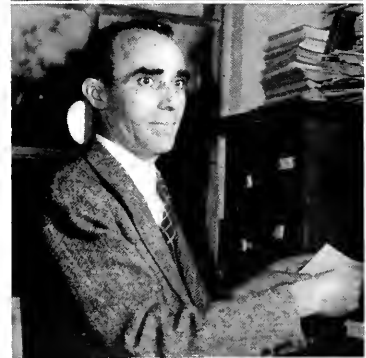

JOHN E. KELLER . . . The Spanish department's junior member is one of Carolina's best teachers. The mysteries of "Ser" and "Estar" are made clear when Keller explains the difference.

HUGH T. LEFLER . . . An average of one hundred students signs for each Lefler course. His knowledge of history, his subtle sense of humor and his smooth delivery make American history live.

CECIL JOHNSON . . . His thorough and methodical teaching and his willingness to help students who need it have earned for him the gratitude of his students for many years.

R. D. W. CONNOR . . . Peering over the rims of his glasses, he teaches North Carolina history to students who know, as he does not, that he is one of Carolina's greatest teachers.

L. O. KATTSOFF . . . One of the University's most versatile profs, he's right at home explaining a math problem, lecturing on the fundamentals of psychology or discussing a basic precept of philosophy.

The Board of Trustees, under the General Assembly, has full power over the affairs of the University of North Carolina. A member is elected to the Board from each county in the state for eight year terms which are so staggered that one-fourth of the number is elected every two years. An Executive Committee of the Board is authorized to act between meetings as the Board's general agent. A Finance Committee is subject to the Board and to the Executive Committee for its duties and powers. Alexander B. Andrews, Raleigh, is Secretary of the Board.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

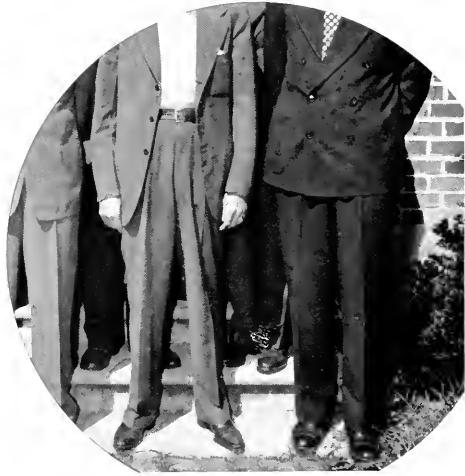

The General Alumni Association of the University of North Carolina . . . its task is as worthy as its name sounds imposing. For more than a century this organization has bridged that span of years which separates the oldest alumnus from the youngest graduate, by uniting both in bonds of common loyalty to their Alma Mater. If you have attended Carolina one quarter or four years, you are one of the 33,000 alumni who are eligible for membership in the Association. As a dues-paying member, you are entitled to vote in elections and receive the magazine, "Alumni Review." Offices of the organization are located in the Carolina Inn.

Recently elected president of the Association is Col. William T. Joyner, '11, who practices law in Raleigh. It is of singular interest that Dr. James Y. Joyner, '81, "one of North Carolina's immortal educational statesmen," has been elected Honorary President of the Association during his son's administration. Both father and son have served their school and their state well.

J. Maryon Saunders, '25, executive secretary of the Association, is affectionately known to the campus as "Spike." For nineteen years he has been completely absorbed in the busy life of the University, guarding its spirit and interpreting its needs for Alumni looking toward Chapel Hill from every corner of the earth.

Classes

We, the seniors of '46, receive our diplomas in the first peacetime graduation exercises at Carolina in four years. We're leaving to go out into a peaceful world. Most of us came to Chapel Hill in wartime. Many of us were part of the war, with reveille, drills and uniforms. Some of us were Carolina men before Pearl Harbor but left to fight, get it over with and come back to become part of the Class of '46.

Ours is different from previous Carolina graduating classes. There are more women than ever before. There is a wider range in our ages and a vaster difference in our experiences. We did not all begin together as college classes usually do. Some of us would have graduated years before if the world had been at peace.

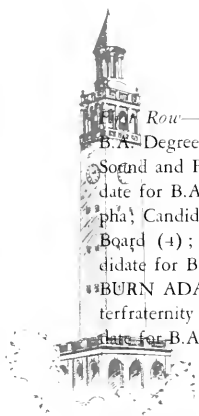

Yet, though we are in many respects a heterogeneous group, we are all alike in our love for our alma mater, and we all get the same feeling when we stand to "Hark, the Sound." Memories of Carolina will stick with us forever—whether we recall sleepy 8 o'clocks, busy extra-curricular hours in Graham Memorial or afternoons with the gang at Harry's. We've shared Duke-Carolina week-ends and the silvery notes of Spivak's trumpet. We've cussed the rain, the mud and the food month in and month out. As we look back over our years here, we'll all wish we had studied a little harder, attended classes a little more regularly and maybe contributed something to student government. Now, as we suddenly realize it's time to leave, we wonder if we'll ever find a place we like quite as much as we've liked Carolina.

A CHAT WITH DR. FRANK

We are juniors, the in-betweens who want to graduate as soon as possible, yet who are beginning to sense a slight touch of nostalgia as we think of the rapidity with which the year has passed and realize that our days at Carolina will soon be numbered. In the autumn we lacked any feeling of regret to see the days pass quickly, the colored campus become bare, and the pigskin battles finish. But as the days passed, weeks, months, and quarters, our love for UNC was strengthened; now, with only one year left, we wonder why we wanted our days at Carolina to run out, ever.

We are happy with our thoughts of one more year in which to buy cokes in the "Y," wade to class in water and mud, shoot the breeze in dormitory rooms, hear fireside concerts in Graham Memorial on Sunday nights, and watch squirrels scamper around the campus. It's good to know that for a while longer we will hear the Bell Tower ring out with "Hark, the Sound" at twilight and be on hand again when our boys tangle with Duke.

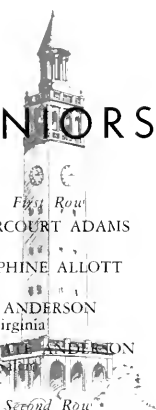

We have one more year in which to prove ourselves worthy of Carolina, one more year in which to participate in musical or publications' organizations, one more year in which to make ourselves heard in the government of which we are a part. We, as juniors, leave much behind us and have many memories, but the future holds much in store for us, because we will come back to the Hill next year and hold high the torch which is our heritage.

THE PHARMACY BUILDING

School of

Many hours of labs are a must for those who aspire to own the corner drug store and the Pharmacy building has been a bee-hive of activity since many new freshmen and veterans have enrolled in the school.

Like the whole University, the Pharmacy school suffered during the war, but the year 1945-46 started it on the quick road back to normalcy.

The School of Law

The Law School was quick to respond to changes brought about by peace. From a wartime low of only fifteen students, the enrollment increased to forty-five at the end of the first semester, and February registration brought the total to well over one hundred students, with the largest first year class in the history of the school.

A great majority of the September and February registrants were veterans, and at the present more than eighty per cent of the student body is comprised of ex-service men and women. The first year class has the greatest number of women students since the Law School was founded.

Out on Pittsboro road there stand structures not unlike many on the campus, but the men who frequent the Medical Buildings seem to have a little different attitude about their work than prevails in the center of the campus.

More women are enrolled in Medical School this year as the total enrollment is on the increase. There are still a few of Uncle Sam's boys working for their MD degree, but for the most part the School of Medicine has returned to civilian life.

The prospective young doctors, some of whom left in March, will never forget the almost daily trips to Durham hospitals for practical experience in their chosen field. A frequent downtown event was the unloading of the med students' bus. Some stopped for a little "downtowning," but for the most part it was back to the books. Long days and even longer nights marked the calendar for the young doctors.

When the med students worked they worked long and hard and when the time came to play, they did their best at this, too. The Law-Med annual dance was a social highlight of the year, this function having been on the shelf during the war years. Parties, as time would allow, kept the medics from becoming dull since all of med school seemed confident that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy.

Student Government

CHARLES VANCE
President

PETE PULLY
Vice-President

Student government suffered during the war. Personnel of organizations changed so rapidly that there was little opportunity for developing the leaders needed so much during the war years. Without this leadership there was a definite lack of orientation during which new students might be acquainted with self government.

There was a tendency to take student government for granted, to assume that it had always been here and would always continue to be. There was a time, however, when the student body was controlled entirely by administrative officials. Then a beginning was made in the halls of the Di and Phi. Students began to show a willingness to accept more and more responsibility. New powers were attained, and a self government system evolved. It took the form of our national and state governments with three branches: executive, legislative and judicial.

Head of the executive branch is the president of the student body chosen in an election in which all students are qualified voters. As coordinator of all three branches the president has many duties. He is the chief executive officer. He is allowed full access to the floor of the Legislature in order that he may carry his plans directly to the men and women who will pass the necessary legislation to put the plans across. He is also chairman of the Student Council.

A good many phases of activity here at the university have been placed under the control of the Student Legislature. Its duties are varied. During the past year it has passed many bills which have directly affected the lives of all students in the university. Highlighting the year's work for the legislative group has been the drawing up of the campus constitution.

The Student Council is Carolina's judicial body. Its duties are the enforcing of legislation and the serving as campus supreme court in violations of the Honor System and Campus Code. Students charged with violations are tried before this group and may, if found guilty, be suspended from school. The greatest problem facing this group during the year was the obvious laxity with which students were enforcing the Honor System. A new orientation system was initiated, and new men were shown the Carolina way by other men who were ready to leave.

Student government, a near casualty of the war, was given a shot in the arm by new men and the return of many veterans. The damage done was great, but there was every reason to hope for a speedy recovery.

WOMAN'S GOVERNMENT

From its Graham Memorial office, the Woman's Government Association and its representative groups, the Senate, Honor Council, and Inter-dormitory Council continued to foster its traditional purpose of better student government through service. The women of Carolina were making themselves heard in a student government traditionally controlled by men. Here, as throughout the rest of the world, the war had brought women an unprecedented opportunity to serve. None could deny that they had served well.

RUTH DUNCAN

WGA functioned this year under the able administration of President Ruth Duncan. The association began the year with the sponsoring of coed orientation week, climaxed by the Coed Ball given in honor of new women.

Working hard to make student government function more efficiently than ever before, Ruth Duncan and other members formed a new WGA Cabinet. Its members were the Speaker of the Coed Senate, President of the Women's Interdormitory Council, and officers of the WGA; its duties, the securing of better cooperation between the three groups represented.

WGA made many other contributions to student government and social activity during the year. An Autumn Ball was successfully given in November. A Coed-Faculty Tea further cemented the good relations between student and teacher for which Carolina is famed. Members of WGA led a movement to reform the old system of explaining the Honor System and Campus Code. A candlelight service was substituted and has been highly successful.

Officers of WGA were: President, Ruth Duncan; Vice-President, Fran Bleight; Secretary, Twig Branch; and Treasurer, Travis Hunt.

ASSOCIATION

STUDENT LEGISLATURE

DOUGLASS HUNT
Speaker

The legislative branch of student government at Carolina was formed in 1938. It is called the Student Legislature. Nearly all rules and regulations governing students here at the university are now passed by this group. Its powers are limited only by its willingness to accept the responsibility which inevitably goes with power.

During the past year the Legislature showed unmistakable signs of war fatigue. The old system of electing only men and women experienced in student government and organizations to the Legislature was abandoned as wartime expediency called for frequent changing of the membership list. Debate on many questions was heated, but a note of apathy prevailed. Some of the year's most widely-debated issues centered around student legislators' lack of knowledge and appreciation of their own powers.

Out of the confusion, however, came a surprisingly large number of bills vitally needed for reconversion to a peacetime university. Under the capable and enthusiastic guidance of Speaker Douglass Hunt the legislators undertook the writing of a new campus constitution. A constitution committee appointed by the presiding officer met often and talked long in preparing a constitution which would be satisfactory to all groups in the Legislature and finally to the student body which was called upon to express its approval or reject the new document.

With the signing of peace with Japan several members of the legislature requested and got a campus referendum abolishing wartime restrictions on dance expenditures.

Few would deny that the Legislature had hit a new low in its brief existence, but as the academic year drew near to a close there were signs that the Legislature was waking up. Increased interest was shown in the conducting of elections. Problems of student morals, long a headache to administrative officials, were catching student legislators' eyes. There was an increasing willingness to accept responsibility and a little less talk of getting new powers.

LIB SCHOFIELD
Speaker

COED

During the war there were few men left at Carolina. Student government became more and more a responsibility of the coeds. Coed branches of student government soon demonstrated willingness and ability to shoulder new responsibilities.

Headed by Lib Schofield, the Coed Senate, major coed legislative body on the campus, completed its year with a record of cooperation and efficiency.

• Standing: Lib Henderson, Meadie Montgomery, Travis Hunt. • Seated: Lib Schofield.

Formed in 1941, the Senate has made high constructive steps as the legislative part of Woman's Government Association and has efficiently handled its broad powers. Making all laws governing the coeds, appropriating and handling the WGA finances, supervising all coed elections and handling WGA social functions were some of the

SENATE

Senate's duties. Also included are the powers to amend the Constitution of the Woman's Government Association, to vote on social rules recommended by the Interdormitory Council and to promote the general welfare of the women. Coed Hour, a monthly meeting sponsored by the Senate, is devoted to explaining new issues to the coeds, introducing candidates for offices and discussing coed regulations.

It is composed of a speaker and a treasurer elected at large, two representatives from each of the major women's dormitories, one representative from Archer House, one delegate from the Women's Athletic Association, the vice-president of WGA, the president of the Interdormitory Council and a Panhellenic Council Representative. The group has passed on many important issues and has taken legislative action on several major programs in the course of the year. It has given added financial benefit to the Women's Glee Club to foster its activity and to the YWCA for dormitory mail box service. It sponsored the Autumn Ball and the Coed Ball in honor of new coeds.

Legislative action brought about the formation of the new WGA cabinet. The Senate has also conducted a program fostering a high standard of moral conduct among the coeds.

Officers of the Senate were: Speaker, Lib Schofield; Speaker Pro-Tem, Meadie Montgomery; Secretary, Lib Henderson; Treasurer, Travis Hunt.

● First Row: C. Morgan, I. Prince, E. Henderson, M. Montgomery, E. Schofield, T. Hunt, F. Bleight, M. H. Gaston. ● Second Row: J. Atkins, M. Emmert, K. Boling, V. Hoyle, B. Barnes, B. Boyd, M. Bensch, L. Leonhard, M. Burke, J. Stewart.

DEBATE COUNCIL

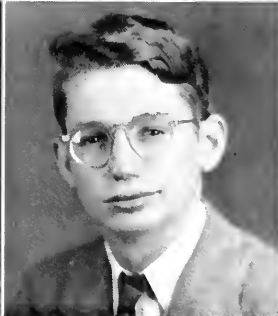

During the war collegiate debating was hit hard. The draft took most of the trained men, and transportation problems were added. The Debate Council and its president, Nina Guard, kept student interest in public speaking alive through the annual intra-mural debate. Plans were being made for a debate between the Di and Phi sponsored by the Debate Council. Delegates were sent to the Student Legislature in Raleigh. An extensive debate tour during the spring term was already planned. Due to President Guard's foresight and planning, Carolina debaters had a better than average chance of winning every meet.

Tau Kappa Alpha, national honorary forensic fraternity, was founded in Indiana in 1908, and now has 105 chapters. The local chapter was established in 1910. Active membership is limited to those who have participated in at least two years of forensic or public speaking activity, have demonstrated superior ability as debaters or public speakers and rank in the upper thirty-five per cent of their college class in accordance with the regulation of the Association of College Honorary Societies.

The purpose of this fraternity is threefold: to award suitable recognition for excellence in forensic meets and public speaking, to promote interest in speech throughout the general public and especially among the students of the campus; and to foster a respect for and an appreciation of freedom of speech as a vital element of democracy.

Members of TKA have been the backbone of public speaking at Carolina. Leaders in collegiate debate have come from this group. Its members were active speakers in the halls of the Dialectic Senate and Philanthropic Assembly. Many have served well in the Student Legislature.

Wherever good speakers were called upon to speak for Carolina, members of TKA were ready to take the stump.

PUBLICATIONS UNION BOARD

FRED FLAGLER
President

To the Publications Union Board, reconversion to a pre-war level in the financing and administration of Carolina's publications provided real problems. Increased enrollment which strained circulation, higher printing and engraving costs and scarcity of experienced staff heads were its biggest challenges. Probably its most noticeable service to the campus at large has been the return of the Tar Heel to daily publication.

Dr. William Wells completed service on the board this year, and Dr. P. L. Brown came on as the new faculty member. The five-member board has tried to keep pace with pre-war standards in tackling the problems of appointing the business managers, fixing salaries, making contracts, and controlling expenditure of publication funds.

Officers of the 1945-46 PU Board were: President, Fred Flagler; Secretary, Linda Nobles; Treasurer, Carroll Poplin; Faculty Members, P. L. Brown and J. Roy Parker; and Faculty Adviser, J. M. Lear.

MEN'S INTERDORMITORY COUNCIL

Administration of men's dormitories at Carolina is left to a great extent to the Men's Interdormitory Council. During the war its importance had declined in proportion to the decline of civilian males, but with the return of fifteen dorms used by the Navy during the war, the Council once again took its place as an important branch of student government. The Council with representatives from each dorm enacts and enforces general legislation; individual problems are left to councils organized in each dormitory.

Officers were: President, Jimmy Wallace; and Vice-President, Charlie Warren.

Lights in the Yack office burned late. Typewriters seldom stopped their clatter. Assignments had to be made. Pictures had to be filed. Advertising space had to be sold. Write-ups were due. Seniors were slow in having their pictures made. Film ran short; tempers ran shorter; flash bulbs ran out. The staff aspirin bottle was more nearly empty every Monday morning. Drove of people applied for work; a few of them came and did it. Letters from the printers were sometimes good, sometimes bad. Deadlines piled up. Copy was late; classwork was later. Then the last section was dropped in the box. The Book was on the way.

Never before have so few done so much for so little. The hours were long; the work was monotonous; the credit is given only here.

CAROLINA

CONNIE HENDREN

MARGARET CARMICHAEL

Carolina's first magazine was published in 1844. Since that time, under many names, it has served the campus by presenting the best in student literary, cartooning and photographic work.

With each new staff the Mag has changed. In its pages are recorded the changes in the Carolina man and woman. Articles on world peace problems were run with humorous short stories. It was indicative of the spirit of the year. Our thoughts were on peace and its preservation, but in our lighter moments we still liked to laugh at times.

Edited this year by Connie Hendren and Stan Colbert, the Carolina Mag maintained its place as a top-ranking college magazine. Cartoons, pin-ups and jokes were combined with literary contributions to make a well-rounded publication.

The Thomas Wolfe Award, given annually to the writer of the best short story printed in the Mag, was offered once more. Increased interest was given to photographic work as Joe Denker snapped the cover girls and other features.

● Seated: Jean Driscoll and Connie Hendren. ● Standing: Mag Burke, Billy Selig, Barbara Lynn, Winkie Andrews, Ann Thornton, Margaret Carmichael, Dick Stoker.

MAG

Bob Levin and Fred Jacobson took over the reins of the ill-fated Mag during the winter term when the editorial staff elect resigned from the job temporarily.

There was always uncertainty about what the Mag was and the DTH did its share on its editorial page to disapprove of some of the periodical's literary ventures.

There was even a question about the Mag being a periodical since there was no regular schedule of appearance. It just came out at random, if at all.

Probably the best issue of the year was the one featuring the layout and stories on the White Phantoms, but then again the Mag was warned against venturing on DTH territory. A lack of writers of the kind needed to add the necessary punch and many other worries made the Mag another campus organization laying a claim for better times next year.

The DAILY

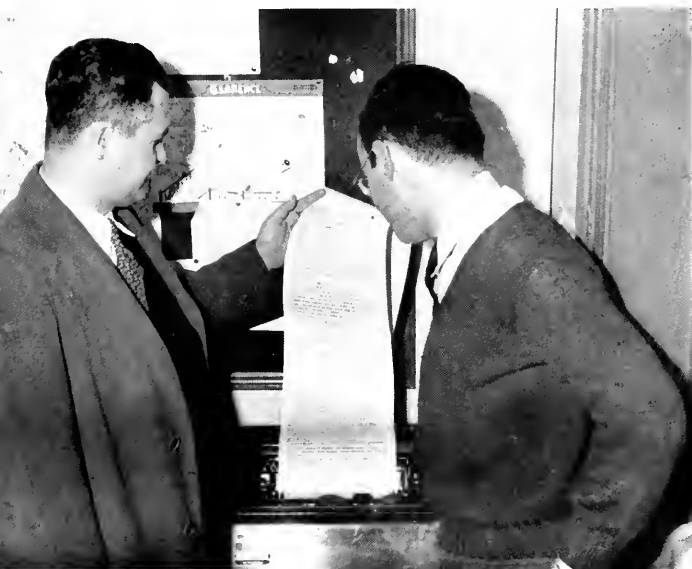

After three years of bi-weekly publication the Tar Heel went daily again.

During the war it faced its severest test. Demands were unprecedented; staffs were green and inexperienced. News coverage for four thousand students was difficult and essential; reporters were few. Student government and extra-curriculars suffered; the Tar Heel had to record the damage and plan for the future though suffering at the same time with other activities.

During the last year the crisis came. Every position on the staff except for the editor's seat was held by at least two different people. Some changed hands a half-dozen times. Many problems arose, and the Tar Heel often led the search for their solutions. It discussed the Chapel Hill food situation in terms of facts and figures. It was instrumental in the reorganization of the Phi Assembly. It sponsored a weekly radio broadcast and the March of Dimes.

For a job that was bigger than ever before the TH was understaffed. Students who didn't know much about newspapers came around and did their best. The list of those who helped is too long for publication. Their leaders were: Editor, Bob Morrison; Managing Editor, Westy Fenhagen; Associate Editor, Eddie Allen; Sports Editors, Carroll Poplin and Irwin Smallwood; Business Manager, Bettie Gaither; Circulation, Harrison Tenney.

TOWN GIRLS' ASSOCIATION

Coed day students, through their Town Girls' Association, have contributed much to all campus activities. With their president, Emily Tufts, they have been very active throughout the year. A basketball team of town girls was organized and competed in intramurals. Girls from the group visited war convalescents at Camp Butler every two weeks. The organization encouraged all of its members to take active roles in all other campus activities. Their Harvest Picnic and Valentine Ball rated high on the Chapel Hill social calendar of '45-'46.

TGA officers were: President, Emily Tufts; Vice-president, Martha Taylor; Secretary, Marie Ford; Treasurer, Carlisle Cashion.

EARL SLOCUM

UNIVERSITY BAND

University Band Director Earl Slocum found his twelfth year at Carolina a rather trying one with a personnel turnover seven times a year. But UNC students watched and listened with just pride every time the band paraded the field playing the familiar "Hark the Sound" led by Drum Major Don Robison and baton-twirling Majorettes Jane Peete and Betty Gaither.

An attractive feature of the band has been the open house for members given by the Slocums. Band Notes, a quarterly edited by the members and sent to band alumni, is also included in its program.

Officers of the band were: President, Monte Howell; Vice-president, Tom Vollmer; Secretary-treasurer, William Fitzgerald; Librarian, Frank West; Assistant Librarian, James King; Business Manager, Rex Coston; Publicity, Nat Macon, and Editor of Band Notes, Elva Warner.

ON THE MARCH

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

CHARLES STEVENS

The Men's Glee Club has completed another active season. Reinforced by Navy students and veterans, the club has had a full schedule with the Christmas concert and the Sesquicentennial program in October. The Spring concert, a tour of nearby colleges and a second Sesquicentennial program in April were on the schedule for later activity.

Officers for the year were: President, Marvin Marillo; Vice-president, Andrew Griffith; Secretary, James Webb; and Business Manager, Charles Stevens.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB

The college year of 1945-46 marked a time of definite progress for the Women's Glee Club. Increasing from a membership of 92 in 1944 to 150 this year, the group has become one of the largest women's organizations on campus. With this expansion the group moved from Hill Hall to Gerrard for its hourly Monday and Wednesday practice.

Following its aim to promote and to foster music, the Glee Club was an active organization under the direction of Paul Young. At the Fall Sesquicentennial program it sang a well-known number from Brahms' German Requiem entitled "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place."

In February and March the Glee Club visited Cherry Point, Camp Lejeune, and Kinston to give concerts of musical comedy, folk and dance music.

Officers were: President, Elizabeth Worrall; Vice-president, Margaret Burke; Secretary, Carlisle Cashion; Business Manager, Laverne Mook; Publicity Chairman, Margaret Winslow.

Graham Memorial Board of Directors

The Graham Memorial Board of Directors is a legislative body composed of administrative officials and presidents of student organizations who direct the policies of the Student Union and maintenance of Graham Memorial. Last fall with the arrival of the new director, Martha Rice, the busy atmosphere of pre-war Graham Memorial was revived. Besides the Friday Night Frolics, a social hour for foreign students, the Thursday night bridge tournaments and the Fireside Concerts, there were such original functions as the Sadie Hawkins celebration, the Harvest Moon Ball, the Hubba Hubba Hop and a Valentine dance. Plans were being made for a small student dance orchestra, movies, visiting artists and a game room.

Officers of the board were: Director, Martha Rice; Chairman, Lib Schofield; and Secretary, Dean Mackie.

University Veterans Association

The University Veterans Association, organized on October 18, 1944, by a small number of returned veterans, has become one of the strongest organizations on campus. Representing about 1600 veterans, the association works for the welfare of veterans and their cooperation with the faculty and other students. During the year they have achieved constructive ends in working with the administration for better housing conditions for married veterans, inaugurating smokers and orientation programs for incoming veterans and helping to register newcomers.

They helped to sponsor Sadie Hawkins Day. Their clubhouse, donated by the University, has been a center for informal parties and dances.

Officers were: President, Dewey Dorsett, Vice-president, Blount Stewart; Secretary, Don English; and Treasurer, Joe Woodruff.

House Privileges Board

ART ADAMS
Chairman

To regulate coed visiting privileges in fraternity houses is the purpose of the House Privileges Board. Consisting of the president and secretary of the Interfraternity Council, three other members of the IFC appointed by the president, president of Woman's Government, speaker of the Coed Senate, and three members whom she appoints, the HPB has weathered the storm of difficulties and continued its policy of approving fraternity houses and signing agreements with fraternity heads. Any violations are tried by the board in fraternity cases and referred to the Woman's Honor Council for coed offenses. Every student is honor bound to uphold the agreement.

Officers were: Chairman, Art Adams; Secretary, Bettie Haughton; Corresponding Secretary, Betty Barnes; and Treasurer, Ruth Duncan.

Women's Interdormitory Council

Acting as a link between the coeds, Dean of Women, and house mothers, the Women's Interdormitory Council provides a system for social rules, supervises House Councils, regulates dormitory life through house meetings, and recommends improvements to the Coed Senate. This year the council was composed of eleven dormitory presidents and sorority house managers, a representative to the Honor Council and a secretary.

The Council's activities for the year included work during Orientation Week, assistance in national money and clothing drives on campus, administration of the WGA examination, and teas and parties for different groups. It also defined the difference between house council and honor council offenses and classified late permissions.

Officers were: President, Lillian Leonhard; Secretary, Carroll Cone; Honor Council Representative, Natalie Harrison.

EVELYN DAVIS
President
MILDRED KRESNIK
Treasurer
NANCY GREENWALL
Secretary

The Carolina Independent Coed Association was organized in 1941 by thirty-four "Stray Greeks" and independent coeds who felt the need of a coordination body of non-sorority women. Its purposes were the promotion of good will and fellowship among the coeds through the sponsorship of social functions, the creation and stimulation of coed interest in campus affairs and the provision of organized support for qualified independent candidates in coed elections.

Since its founding five years ago, CICA has earned the reputation of a democratic group working for the benefit of all Carolina. This past year the organization has successfully undertaken several worthwhile projects. With the Veterans' Association, CICA sponsored in November a Sadies Hawkins' Day which turned out to be one of the most popular events at the University.

CICA and the Pan-Hellenic Council often work hand in hand with good results. In September they presented a fashion show orientation party for the new coeds, and the two groups worked together again in the presentation of the May Day pageant.

Officers for the year were: President, Evelyn Davis; Vice-president, Betsy Anne Barbee; Secretary, Nancy Greenwall; and Treasurer, Mildred Kresnik.

The Executive Committee consisted of the above officers and the following girls: Mary Hill Gaston, Lib Schofield, Marie Blaylock, Shirley Rivers, Gloria Chapman, Lib Henderson, Betty Edwards, Travis Hunt, Gloria Robbins, Alice Lee Merritt, Jerry Hobbs, Bettye Jo Blanton and Blanche Jacobi.

Y.M.C.A.

With the post-war world came a period of transition of the YMCA. Founded in 1859, it is the third oldest organization on campus and has an annual paying membership of 1500. As a host to visitors and a campus USO during the military period, the Y continued functioning as a service of information, housing and personal aid. This year its efforts were to reestablish all lines of normal progress.

In a threefold development of mind, spirit and body, the Y did much to aid students. This year it sponsored the Tuberculosis and World Students' Service Fund Drives, supper forums, Religious Emphasis Week and the Institution of Human Relations. It worked particularly on student-faculty relations and made definite plans for a new building.

Officers were: President, Pat Kelly; Vice-president, Bill Hight; Secretary-Treasurer, Bill Crutchfield; General Secretary, Harry F. Comer; Assistant Secretary, Bill Potat.

BERLETTE CAPT
Chairman

"To realize a creative college life through growing knowledge of God and understanding of Jesus" was the purpose of the YWCA for the year. This idea has been expressed through the work of fifteen committees composed of 620 YWCA members.

During Orientation Week the Y opened its year with a party for new coeds, and later it held its annual Retreat to plan the year's work. Its major projects were the installation of interdormitory mail boxes for campus notices, the sponsoring of the Tuberculosis and World Students' Service Drive and a Religious Emphasis Week.

Outstanding was special committee work by the Recreation Committee which held numerous "get acquainted" parties for veterans and service groups and the work of the Race Relations and Social Service Committees.

Officers were: President, Berlette Capt; Vice-president, Dorothy Phillips; Secretary, Betty Morris; Treasurer, Elizabeth Worrall; Resident Secretary, Mrs. Fay Ferrell.

PHILANTHROPIC ASSEMBLY

The Philanthropic Assembly, one of Carolina's wartime casualties, was reorganized during the year by the Tar Heel.

Devoting most of its discussions to campus affairs, the Phi contributed much to student understanding of campus politics, the UNC Honor System, the Umstead Act, the student entertainment program and curriculum changes needed for reconversion. The Phi has taken a leading role in promoting student interest in public speaking and self government.

Much of the credit for the Phi's success during the year goes to its Speakers, Jack Lackey and A. B. Smith.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

GLORIA CHAPMAN
Chairman

During the academic year World War Two came to an end, the San Francisco Conference was held and the atomic bomb revolutionized world politics. A clear understanding of problems that stand in the way of peace was needed more than ever before. In that year the IRC served its campus and its community well by presenting radio forums, discussions and speakers on international affairs. Regular Monday night discussions directed by President Gloria Chapman covered Franco's Spain, the advisability of lowering tariff walls in the United States, the structure of the United Nations organization and other subjects related to international affairs.

The world needed informed citizens; the International Relations Club was getting them ready.

With the end of war, military men lost their place of prominence, and politicians once more took the reins. War was a thing of the past. International and national politics took over the front pages of newspapers from Sydney to San Francisco. People the world over realized that the peace won by armies must now be held by statesmen. There were many problems to be solved: strikes threatened our reconversion program; demands for higher wages brought new danger of inflation; eleven million veterans needed jobs, homes and education.

To discuss these problems and to seek a solution for them, members of the Carolina Political Union met around the Grail Room round table in Graham Memorial on Sunday nights. Republicans, Democrats, and a few independents listened first to factual reports from one of the members, then threw the floor open for discussion. Conservatives deplored the demands of Labor; liberals denounced the tyranny of Capital. A discussion on Bretton Woods and the world bank gave student economists and political scientists a chance to examine financial obstacles to world peace. The Truman Administration and its influence on Republican hopes for '48 were discussed often throughout the year.

Out of it all came an inescapable conclusion: the CPU was following the rest of the world in a path that was "slightly left of center."

Rounding out its first decade of meetings, the CPU continued its policy of presenting to the campus leading politicians of all major viewpoints. Highlighting the speaker presentation program was Georgia's progressive young governor, Ellis Arnall, who spoke in Memorial Hall on November 28.

DIALECTIC

The Dialectic Senate, Carolina's first extra-curricular organization and the nation's second oldest literary society, celebrated its one hundred fiftieth birthday during the academic year.

From June 3, 1795, to its present Wednesday night meetings the Di has consistently rendered great service to its university, its state and its nation. The liberal student government for which Carolina is famed was born in the Dialectic Senate hall. Campus publications were founded by the Di and Phi. The university library was founded through endowments of the two societies. All major campus problems are debated on the floor of the Di in order that a better understanding of the issues may be reached. Bills passed in the Di are often referred to the student legislature and to administrative officials in order that the campus as a whole may benefit from the discussions.

Leaders of the Senate often go on from its rostrum to serve in positions of honor in the state and national capitols. President James K. Polk was a Dialectic Senator before entering politics. Half of North Carolina's governors received their first training in public service, parliamentary procedure and free debate while members of the Di. Outstanding campus leaders who are members of the Senate are: Douglass Hunt, speaker of the student legislature; Gloria Chapman, president of the International Relations Club; Bill Crisp, chairman of the Carolina Political Union; Robert Morrison, editor of the Tar Heel; Ralph Glenn, director of the Tar Heel Institute of Public Affairs; Nina Guard, president of the Debate Council; and Roy Thompson, managing editor of the Yackety Yack. Other members of the Senate are members of the student legislature and the honor council.

The Dialectic Senate's past has been one of great service to university, state and nation; its present, a leadership in all campus organizations and student government; its future, a training place for future leaders, men of Carolina to take the places of Polk, Battle and Graham.

SOUND AND FURY

POKEY ALEXANDER

Returning veterans and new coed talent helped to shake Sound and Fury out of its wartime doldrums. During the war years student entertainment had slipped, along with other extra-curriculars, to a new low in interest and personnel. With the end of war, however, there was a new chance. Some of the members of Sound and Fury who had helped in the organization of the group in 1939 returned to the campus and immediately started building up the group again.

Extensive membership drives were launched to attract new members with talent for light entertainment. Campus interest was further aroused by a song ad script-writing contest which produced material that was used later in an extravaganza of song and dance held in March.

Officers were: President, Poky Alexander; Treasurer, Trudy Walton; Business Manager, Margie Pullen; Publicity Manager, Coline Smith; Dance Director, Patty Harry; Music Director, Bill Sasser; Technical Director, Farrell Potts; and Representatives-at-large, Jack Dube, Brad McCuen and Ken Willis.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

Acting as a spiritual link of fellowship to students away from home, the Baptist Student Union has performed a welcome service to the campus. Under the new leadership of J. C. Herrin, student chaplain and assistant pastor, the B.S.U. has done much.

Through Friday night Fellowship Suppers, Sunday night vespers, and noon-day devotionals the Union has kept in close touch with the campus. The most recent activities have been the noon-day devotionals on week-days which consist of ten-minute programs conducted by the students and the Sunday School Young People's Department which operates under the B.S.U.

The B.S.U. also published a monthly paper, the "Christian Student," edited by Eunice Smith and sent to all Baptist students on campus and to alumni.

Officers were: President, Bill Chapin; Vice-Presidents, Jane Gunter, Jimmy Arnall, Virginia Gaston, Larry Schrum; and Editor of the "Christian Student," Eunice Smith.

ATHLETICS

Carolina's athletic program started off in the spring of 1945 with a Ration Loop champion baseball team, followed up by a football squad which broke even, winning five and losing five contests. Probably the highlight of the Carolina sports picture for 1945 was the return of Carl Snavelly to the University of North Carolina gridiron. Snavelly coached football at Carolina in 1934 and 1935, then went to Cornell. Back at Carolina Coach Snavelly hopes to put Carolina back on the football map.

Sports in 1946 proved somewhat disappointing to Tar Heel supporters who saw probably the best Carolina basketball team in history fall before Wake Forest in the semi-finals of the Southern Conference basketball tournament. There was a great deal of consolation, however, in the fact that the Tar Heels received and accepted a bid to the National Collegiate Tournament in Madison Square Garden. Both Coach Ben Carnevale and his crew of players worked hard only to be dumped out of the Southern Conference crown, after breezing through a strenuous loop schedule and losing only one game.

Intramurals and other sports were on the increase in 1945 and 1946, with the return of veterans increasing the ranks of men at the University and creating a demand for a return to Carolina's sports "for everybody" program.

CAROLINA TAKES CAMP LEE OPENER

Coach Carl Snavely uncovered his Carolina football products for the first time against a strong soldier eleven from Camp Lee, and Tom Gorman's pitch to Charlie Ellison on a run in the second period provided a 6-0 winning margin.

The score was the result of a 53-yard drive, which saw Bill Flamish, Bill Voris, and Tom Colfer put the ball in scoring position. Colfer's 21-yard aerial to Voris sent the ball from the 32 to the 11 and Gorman tossed the touchdown pass two plays later.

The Tar Heel line, led by Ed Golding and Ted Hazelwood, held the potent Army offense at bay time and again as the Snavelymen chalked up victory No. 1.

MERLE NORBROSS STARTS OFF AGAINST ENGINEERS

The Yellow Jackets scored twice in a hurry, the Tar Heels countered with two of their own, but a third period Tech touchdown drive proved too much and Carolina lost 20-14.

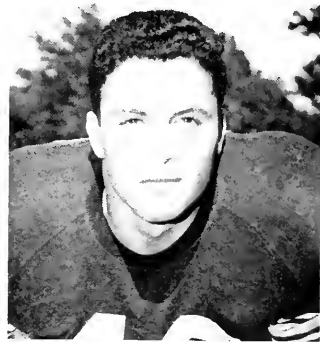

Tom Colfer's passing to Max Cooke and Bob Oliphant set up the initial tally, a bullet-like pass from Colfer to Oliphant gaining the touchdown itself.

Joe Gurtis recovered a Tech fumble, the Tar Heels lost on downs, and Cooke fell on another Jacket bobble to set up the second score for Carolina. B. K. Grow ran twice, being stopped on the six-inch mark, and Colfer slashed over tackle for a touchdown. Bob Cox booted both points to give Carolina a 14-13 halftime lead. The Techmen hit paydirt again in the second half and held for the distance.

Having been held scoreless during the first half, Carolina came back in the third and fourth periods to overpower Virginia Tech, 14-0.

In the third quarter, B. K. Grow grabbed a fumble on the Tech 19, and in three plays the Tar Heels scored. Tom Colfer, sophomore passing ace, took to the ground and sliced off 16 yards for the touchdown.

Sheer power on the part of the Snavelymen paid off in the final minutes, when the UNC eleven put on an 85-yard sustained drive. Wingback Bob Oliphant peeled off runs of 20 to 19 yards in the drive, and Colfer gained +2 in six tries. Colfer went for the second and final tally standing up from the 10-yard line. Bob Cox kicked good for the second time.

PENNSYLVANIA OUTCLASSES SNAVELYMEN

Everything but the proverbial kitchen sink was thrown at the Tar Heels on that fateful day in Philadelphia, the Quakers from Penn trampling the Carolinians seven touchdowns, 49-0.

Only seven plays were required for the Penn outfit to cross the Tar Heel goal, and after one Carolina threat, the powerful Penn grid machine scored at will.

Following the first Quaker score, Snavely's charges sprinted to the Penn 20, but a pass interception on the nine ended the threat. Co-Captain Bill Walker countered by snagging a Penn pass and running it to the 28, but the threat ended when Carolina lost the ball on downs.

Cherry Point's fighting Marine footballers put the scare on the Tar Heels and it wasn't until the last seconds of play that Carolina mustered enough power to topple the visitors 20-14.

Tom Gorman's passing and Bill Voris' line plunging proved to be the winning spark for the Tar Heels. Gorman started passing to Max Cooke and Chuck Ellison as the seconds ticked by and Voris finished the drive with two line plunges resulting in the winning marker.

Tom Colfer accounted for the first two touchdowns for Carolina almost singularly. He climaxed a 58-yard drive by a wide end around run for the first score and minutes later broke through tackle after another long march for the second score. Again it was Bob Cox who made placements good for extra points.

TENNESSEE OUTSMARTS TAR HEELS

It looked for a while like the Snavelymen had a major upset, but a smart Tennessee eleven rallied on a kickoff runback and two intercepted passes in the final period to hand the Tar Heels their second loss, 20-6.

Don Clayton went over from the 20 for a Carolina touchdown minutes after the beginning of the second half, but the score was called back on a holding penalty. However, just before the end of the third quarter, Carolina got the ball on the Tennessee 25 by virtue of a bad punt, and Tom Gorman connected with passes to Mike Rubish and Bill Pritchard for six points. Pritchard took the scoring aerial on the five and stepped across the goal.

VARNEY AND PRITCHARD CLOSE IN ON WILLIAM AND MARY SAFETY MAN

Freshman Merl Norcross came through with a Sunday punch in the last minute and a half of play to give Carolina its fourth triumph of the season, 6-0, over William and Mary.

Norcross, weighing 151, got the touchdown drive going with a 24-yard jaunt from the Indian -46 to the 22. An eight-yard pass to Mike Rubish and three running plays were all Norcross needed to complete the scoring operation.

Carolina, winning its second Southern conference encounter, set the pace in every department, and an attempted field goal from the Tar Heel 10 was as close as the Indians came to scoring. Norcross hauled down a William and Mary pass midway in the fourth quarter and raced back to the 27, but four plays failed to net a first down and Carolina lost the ball on downs.

A lone extra point was sufficient for Wake Forest to edge out the Tar Heels in a 14-13 heartbreaker before a packed stadium of Tar Heel fans.

The Deacs were the first to score after 12 minutes of play and Carolina came back just before the end of the half with a scoring drive which came to a halt on the Wake Forest nine stripe.

After Chunk Simmons returned a Wake Forest kickoff from his own 10 to the Wake Forest 46, Bob Warren scooted around end for the first Tar Heel touchdown. Bob Cox's conversion attempt was blocked.

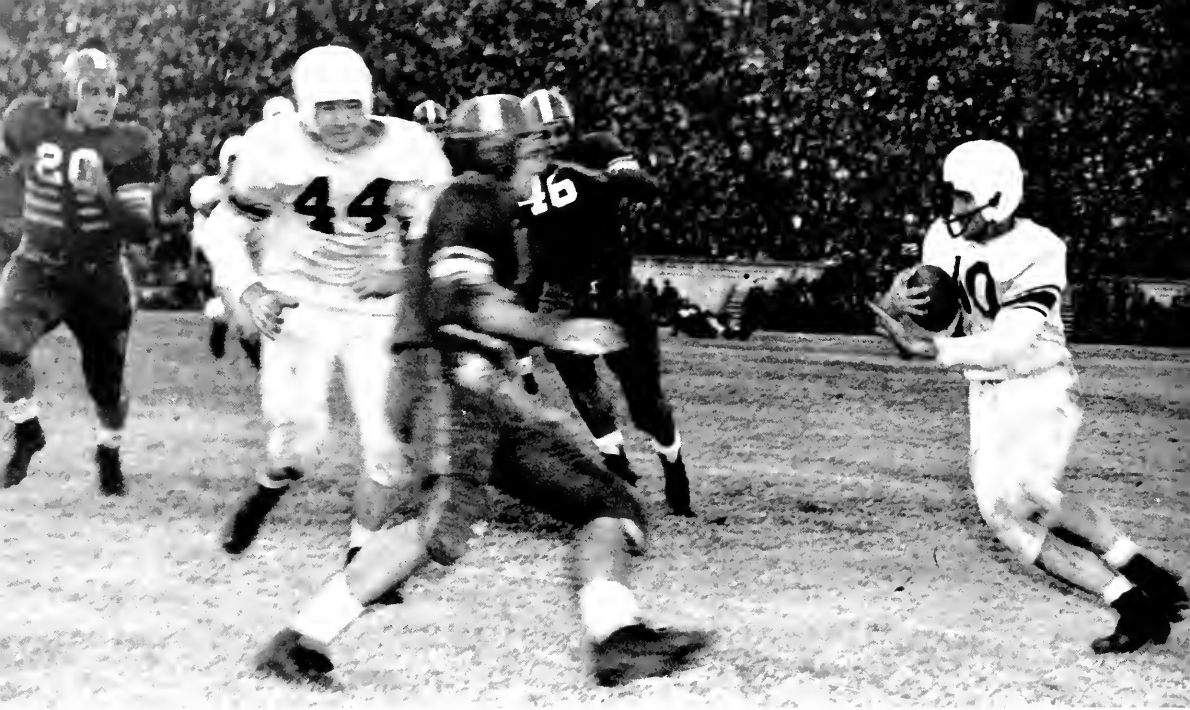

Two minutes before the final whistle, Bob Warren took a long jaunt which set up the second Tar Heel score. Two line plays failing, Warren passed to Max Cooke who went over for the second marker. Cox's conversion was good.

BILL WALKER GETS AWAY FOR A FEW STEPS AS CHARGING DUKES PRESS IN ON HIM

DUKE FOUND TAR HEELS NO PUSHOVER

The Tar Heels were supposed to be a pushover for the mighty Dukes, but after two touchdowns the Blue Devils had to be satisfied because the underdog Tar Heels were determined to check Duke's impressive scoring record, and prevent a predicted shelacking. The Dukes won with a fight.

Early in the game the Dukes scored two touchdowns and the folks of Tar Heelia were ready to see their favorite team go to the showers with another Duke slaughter on the books. It was a different story though, as the scoring combination of Tom Gorman passing to Bill Pritchard and Max Cooke started a scoring drive.

With the ball resting on Duke's 31, Tom Gorman faded back and tossed to Pritchard in the end zone for the lone Tar Heel touchdown. Bob Cox made it seven points with a perfect placement.

Carolina seemed to find the answer in the air for their ground gaining worries. A concentrated passing attack kept the Blue Devils busy and a pass interception by the latter crushed Tar Heel hopes of tying the mighty Dukes in the last minutes of play.

Coach Snavely's men walked away from the field defeated in score, but fully aware that they had played their hearts out and had scared the devil out of the Devils.

Putting on their best display of power of the season, Carolina scored three quick touchdowns before Virginia could reach pay dirt, and finally got the best of the fracas, 27-18.

Five first downs in a row from the opening kickoff put the ball in scoring position and Jim Camp went around right end for the first marker. Bob Cox placed-kicked for the extra point. Camp's interception set the stage for the second tally, and the scoring play was on Bobby Warren's sleek 18-yard pass to Bill Pritchard, who ran the 25 remaining yards to score.

Voris came through again after the intermission kickoff, making three first downs and putting the ball in scoring position. Camp, on a reverse, carried over for the third score. Virginia tallied twice, but Carolina came back in a drive from its own 27 to the red flags. Voris, B. K. Grow and Bobby Warren provided the ground offensive for the drive, Warren going over for the touchdown.

Virginia hit back once again, but the Tar Heels held to the wide margin to win decidedly.

JACK KIRKLAND
Head Cheerleader

Headed by Jack Kirkland, the Tar Heel cheerleaders did a fine job of retuning the spirit of Carolina of yesteryear. With many of the old Carolina men back who knew the songs backward and forward, it always seemed like a Carolina victory in a spiritual sense if not by the score.

Other Sports

COACH KENFIELD

TENNIS

One of the worst seasons in years befell the Tar Heel tennis squad in 1945, Carolina winning only three matches while losing six and tying one.

Victories for the netmen of Coach John F. Kenfield, head coach at Carolina for 18 years, came over Virginia, The Citadel and the Blue Devils of Duke. Duke came back to win over the Tar Heels later in the season, however. Other losses were at the hands of William and Mary, Navy, Georgia Tech, Pre-Flight and Cherry Point; a match with Camp Lejeune ended three-all as the match was called.

Not a letterman was in sight as the season got underway, but outstanding men for the Tar Heels were produced before the season's close. Cliff Tuttle, No. 1 man, and Duke Wilder, No. 2, came through consistently and kept Carolina in the running until the end.

RATION LOOP CHAMPIONS

When the final out of the 1945 season was made, the Ration League championship pennant was hoisted over Chapel Hill for the Tar Heel baseball club. Coach Bunn Hearn's baseballers had nosed out Duke's Blue Devils 4-3 and thus clinched the crown with an eight and four record in loop play.

In general the season got off to a slow start for the Tar Heels, but the hard-fighting youngsters came back in the waning days to come out on top. The overall record stood at 13 wins and 11 losses.

but defeats came at the hands of such top-notch teams in this section as Greensboro ORD, Ft. Bragg and others.

League play saw Duke take the first two out of four games with Carolina, but Coach Hearn's charges grabbed the final pair. Other Ration losses came at the hands of State and Pre-Flight. The Tar Heel nine recorded triumphs during the early part of the season over Roanoke and Durham, of the Piedmont and Carolina leagues, respectively.

The hurling of Chuck Hayne, Red Forrest and Tommy Andrew was superb, and the hitting of Allen Elger, Bob Fahey, Red Hughes, Zeke Zientek and Moon Mullen paid off in the clinches. Afield, John Gregory and George Thompson were outstanding.

A successful season it was for Carolina, winning its second Ration title since the league's inauguration with the coming of the war. With Pre-Flight winning one season, the pennant flew over Chapel Hill all three years.

BASKETBALL

During the 1945-46 winter sports season at Carolina, basketball reigned supreme in importance and success for the second year in a row. For the second year under young naval lieutenant Ben Carnevale the White Phantom hoop and hardwood artists proved themselves the best in the South—even though they were upset in the semi-finals of the conference tournament by a previously twice-beaten Wake Forest team.

In the beginning, it took only three games to give the Tar Heels a defeat, but the initial loss came at the hands of a strong Greensboro Army five, and by a one-point margin in the last second.

Seven consecutive games following that defeat went to the Phants, however, including wins over New York University, the No. 1 club in the East, and St. Josephs, another top-ranking Eastern crew. But Duke's Blue Devils upset the Carolina apple-cart after these seven triumphs, turning the trick before a capacity crowd in Woollen gym 51-46 in overtime.

When the Tar Heels recovered from the loss to Duke, it was not until the final game of the season that the Phants suffered a setback, and even then it came minus two starters—Johnny Dillon and Bones McKinney, both of whom were in the hospital. Little Creek, Va., Amphib base did it, halting a 17-game win streak of the Carnevalemen that saw them defeat Duke 54-44, Navy 51-49 and Greensboro ORD 74-39 in a runaway scrap that saw second All-American Jim Jordan tally 32 points.

The disastrous Southern conference tournament came just a week after the close of the regular season, and although the Tar Heels came through with an impressive first round 54-27 win over Maryland, Wake Forest out-fought a bad-shooting Carolina quint by 31-29 in semi-final play.

For the time being it looked like the loss had dropped Carolina from its place in National ratings, but the following Tuesday the Tar Heels were chosen to represent the third district in the National Collegiate tournament in New York. The 27-4 overall record for the year was too much to be passed up, and the Phantoms received the honor ahead of the conference champion Dukesters.

Heading the pack in scoring for the season was Johnny 'Hook' Dillon, with old standby Jim Jordan coming in a close second and Bob Paxton third. Both Dillon and Jordan broke the 300 mark in the scoring column, and the two each had an average of more than 12 points a game.

Bones McKinney, who just came to the Tar Heels at mid-season, was the No. 4 man as far as scoring was concerned, and Don Anderson, Jim White, Taylor Thorne, and Red Hughes kicked in the majority of the remaining 1,647 points tallied during the regular season—a new record.

Coaches Carnevale and Pete Mullis directed the Tar Heels through thick and thin masterfully, through a hard northern invasion as well as the best in the Southern conference. However, it was the superb teamwork on the part of all that netted the outstanding season, teamwork on the part of more than one man who was capable of being a star in his own right.

TRACK AND CROSS COUNTRY

Coach Dale Ranson was faced with a big problem when he started to build a spring track team, but the veteran Carolina cinder chief managed to take hardly more than two lettermen from indoor track and chalk up a record of four wins and three losses.

Bynum Hunter and Bob Dodson were the holdovers, and these boys, along with Ted Haigler, Don Clayton, Doug Erath, Whitey Holden, Forest Leathers, Jack Hester, Tom Turner and Fred Bauer made up the nucleus of the Tar Heel running crew. Mike Mangum, a veteran hurdler, came down from Med school to help in several meets.

Top places for Carolina were taken over Cherry Point, Duke, Hunter Field, Ga., and in the AAU invitation track and field meet. Georgia Tech, Virginia and Navy recorded wins over the Ransonsmen.

Carolina took seven out of eight meets on the hill and dale course. Duke and Georgia Tech both fell twice, and Cherry Point, State and Virginia once as the Tar Heels defeated all southern oncomers.

Erath, a two-miler in the spring, was the No. 1 man, and Dodson, Holden, Art Lamb, Frank Hatch, Oliver Allen, Mack Hobkirk and John Strait made up the other outstanding members.

BLUE DOLPHIN

The 1945-46 Carolina swimmers had another red-letter year, even though they suffered their first defeat in three years of collegiate competition. And the work of the Casey brothers, Ralph and Willis, was superb from a coaching point of view.

Summer competition saw both the Carolina men and women capture the Carolinas AAU championships, and several National titles were also annexed by the Blue Dolphins.

Dick Twining, Bo Jenkins and Ben Ward walked off with the National Junior 300 meter medley relay crown, and this trio set a new American record in doing it. Ward won the National Junior 50 meter free style championship in addition, setting a new National record, and Twining also copped the National Junior 300 meter individual medley.

The women swimmers, a relay team of Frances Kenny, Randy Hudson and Ethel Laughlin, were victorious in the Women's National Junior 150 meter Medley relay to round out summer action.

During the winter season, the Dolphins made a record of six wins and two losses, the setbacks coming from the best teams in the nation, Army, Navy, and Ohio State.

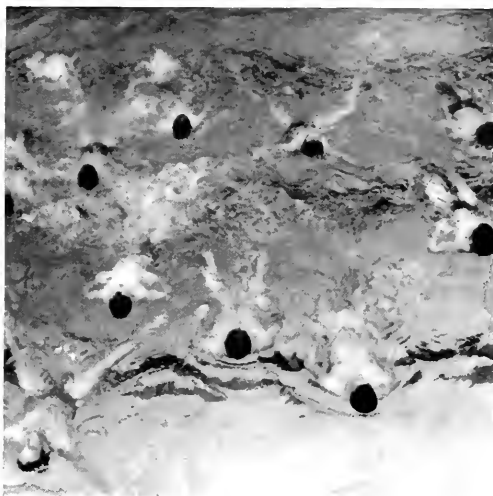

CAROLINA MERMAIDS

SWIMMERS

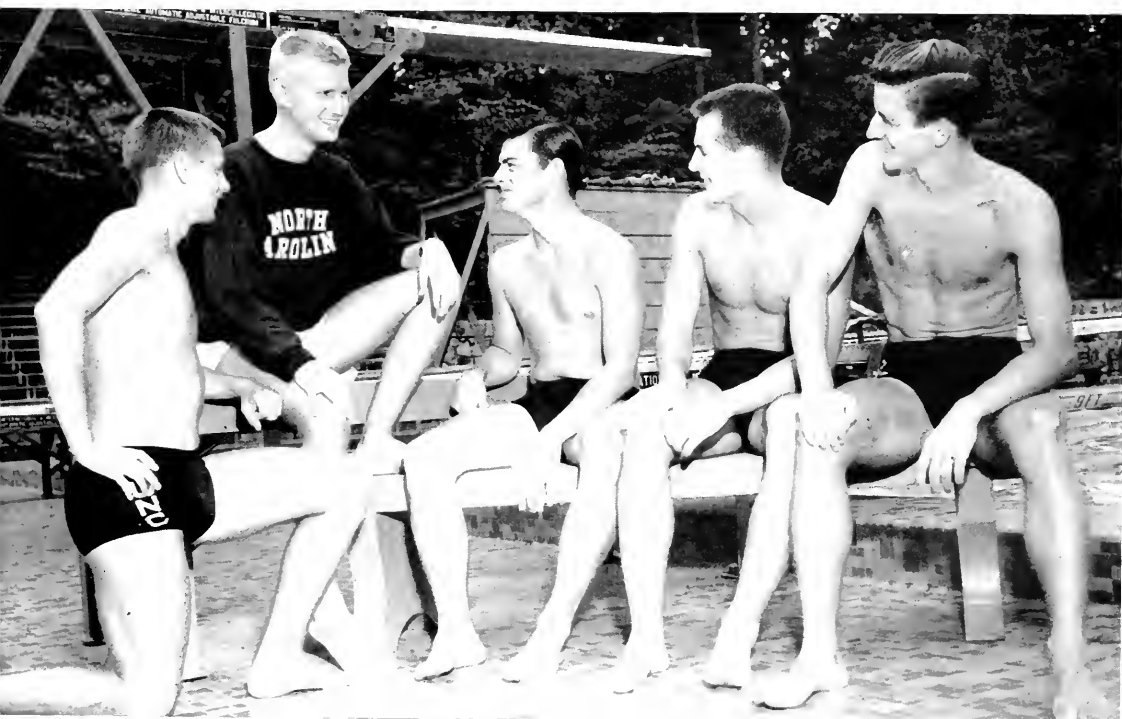

Wins over Camp Lejeune and Georgia Tech started the season, and then in the third meet of the season, Carolina took second behind Navy in a triangular contest between the Middies, the Tar Heels and Cornell.

Duke fell next before the Tar Heel swimming pane, and this victory was followed by a second win over Georgia Tech. Carolina rang up 38 points to edge out Pensacola NAB in the Southeastern championships, but in another triangular affair with Army and Ohio State, the Tar Heels finished a close third, with Ohio State at the top.

The season was completed with the winter Carolinas AAU meet, and Carolina scored 40 points as compared with 33 of all other contestants to win easily.

BOXING

COACHES DEL LEATHERMAN AND JULES MEDWIN

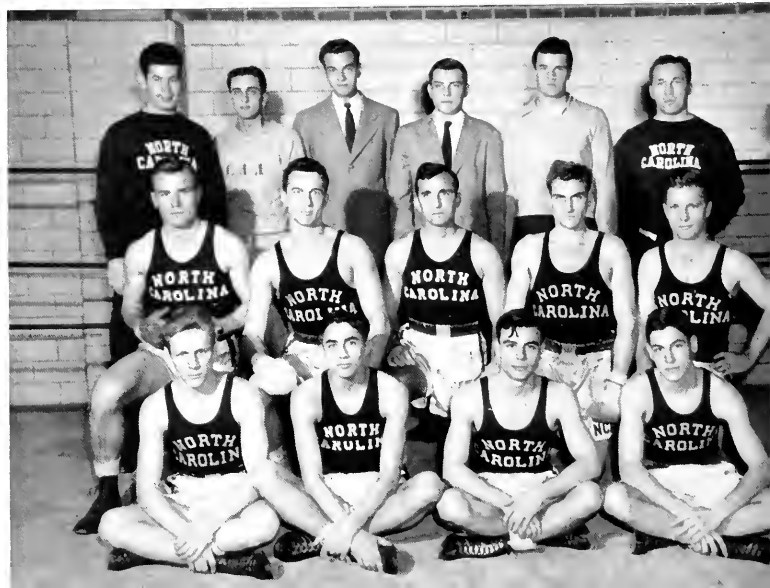

The Tar Heel boxers got off to a somewhat late start due to the lack of a coach. Jule Medwin, a former Carolina star in his own right, was borrowed from V. P. I. and the veteran ring man soon had the pugilists rallied.

Carolina took its initial match by a 5-3 score over South Carolina, but in the second battle, Army's eastern champion mit-men edged out the Tar Heels by 4½-3½. Next foe on the agenda was Virginia, and here Carolina ran into trouble again, losing at Charlottesville by 5-3.

Coach Medwin and his boxers wound up the season with a second win over South Carolina 6-2, the scheduled finale with the Coast Guard Academy having been canceled by the sailors.

Only one undefeated man emerged from the season for the Tar Heels—Ed McGee, a former paratrooper with two Purple Hearts, coming out on top in four out of four battles. Del Leatherman, a 1945 star, was unable to fight because of an injury sustained in football, but the rugged heavyweight lent a hand in coaching and was slated to compete in the eastern collegiate matches in the spring.

WRESTLING

Heavyweight Al Crawford made the difference all year, and he finished the season undefeated along with Tommy Hearn and Art Bluethenthal to set the pace for Chuck Quinlan's once-beaten Tar Heel Wrestlers.

"Quinny's" grapplers, who enjoyed a much better season than in 1945, got off to a good start by winning their first two battles—over Appalachian 22-8 and Virginia 22-6. Duke, however, threw a monkey wrench into hopes for a perfect record with a 19-11 victory over the Tar Heels.

Carolina followed the Duke defeat with another victory over Virginia, 24-8 this time, and then they came back to beat the Blue Devils in a return match 14-12. Crawford came through with a 10-second fall to clinch the contest. The season was brought to a climactic finish with a 16-14 decision over Georgia Tech, giving Carolina a five and one record for the year.

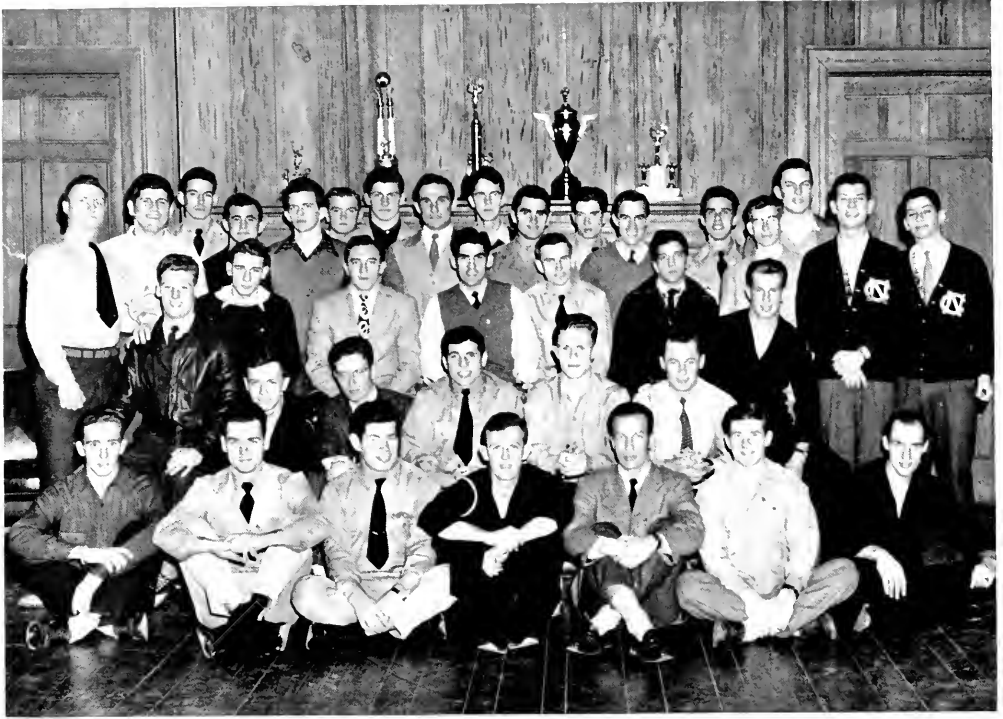

Standouts on the squad included Irwin Smallwood, Marvin Wilson, Tommy Gray, Walter Johnson, Hearn, Demont Rosemann, Dick Seaver, Archie Thompson, Bluethenthal, Don Ryder, Bill Crutchfield and Crawford.

THE MONOGRAM CLUB

MONOGRAM CLUB

JACK ZIMMERMAN
President

When Bill Ward was elected to the presidency of the Athletic Association early in 1945 one of his promises to the students was that he would attempt to reorganize the Monogram Club. He kept that promise, and the club has been activated once again.

The principal activity of the Club during the year has been that of attempting to encourage worthy athletes to choose Carolina as their school. Several organized attempts have been made during the course of the year for the furthering of that purpose. An intra-squad game for the purpose of unveiling Coach Snavelly's 1945 team was sponsored by the club at the close of the spring football session. However, at the core of the Monogram Club activity was a campaign to secure the guardianship of Navy Hall. That goal was reached in December when an "open house" was held. With the building as a center of its activity the Monogram Club has become one of the best-organized clubs on the campus.

Officers were: President, Jack Zimmerman; Vice-President, Mike Morrow; Secretary and Treasurer, Ed Golding; and Representative to Athletic Council, Jim Camp.

UNIVERSITY CLUB

"For the University," the motto of the University Club, is self-explanatory of the purpose of this representative body. Composed of a junior class representative from each of the men's dormitories and fraternities and a senior class representative from each of the women's dormitories and sororities, the Club has functioned efficiently under the leadership of Dick Jente, who stepped in as president after the graduation of Laurie Hooper in November. Despite the complications caused by the quarterly turnovers the University Club maintained its policy of sponsoring the pep rallies, improving intra-school relationships and assisting other organizations in beneficial projects.

Along with its other duties the club sponsored a yard display contest during the Homecoming week-end and awarded their War Bond Prize to the Pi Beta Phi sorority. Carr Dormitory received the University Club cup for the most original display during the Duke-Carolina week-end.

Officers were: President, Dick Jente; Vice-President, Whit Osgood; Secretary, Martha McClenaghan; and Treasurer, Mike Morrow.

FROM WOOLLEN

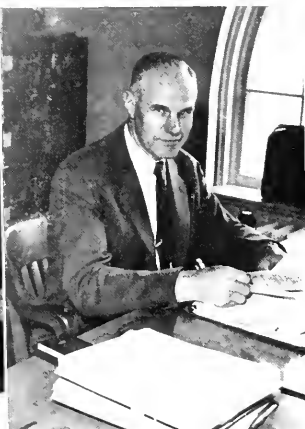

BO SHEPHARD

From the basement of Woollen Gymnasium to the far reaches of Carolina's vast athletic plant, there is constant use of probably the best physical education equipment in the South.

Woollen Gymnasium itself offers basketball courts, handball courts, wrestling and boxing rooms, adequate locker and shower facilities and modern classrooms. Adjoining the gym are the Bowman Gray Memorial swimming pool, another one of the "bests" of the South and a recently added outdoor pool located in the rear of Woollen Gym for summer swimmers.

RECREATION AND

Carolina is one of the few Southern universities which offer both Bachelor's and Master's degrees in Physical Education. Graduates of both departments fill a wide demand for coaches, recreation directors and physical education instructors. In addition to the professional courses for future teachers and coaches, all students gain practical health knowledge and habits in hygiene and physical training classes.

Dormitory and fraternity leagues which muster as much enthusiasm as the varsity sports program does, offer a broad and attractive sports program. The percentage of undergraduate men participating in such programs ranges around 80.

"An ounce of prevention costs less than a pound of cure" . . . Chapel Hill, blessed with a naturally healthful climate, believes that a sound body is as essential as a sound mind. The theory that "a man works well only if he is well" is practiced as much as it is preached around the University.

Sports for everybody continues as an integral part of Carolina.

Although women's athletics didn't begin until November, a great deal was accomplished under the guidance of the W.A.A. Council and Mrs. Gladys Beard, Miss Lois Blanchette, Miss Betty Knox, Miss Mary Kellan, Mrs. Billie Albright, Mrs. Eloise Demerest, and Mr. Thaddeus Malinowsky.

The November volley ball opened the activities. Pi Phi, sorority winner, defeated Spencer, dormitory winner, in the championship game.

Basketball held its own in both Varsity and Intramural games. The returned Varsity of 1945 was the deciding factor in the 1946 record. They defeated the All-Stars of Henderson and Dunn, participated in a Play Day with four other colleges.

With the direction of Bitty Grimes, the Pan-Hellenic Council started its year with a party given in Graham Memorial Lounge with the CICA for the new coeds during orientation week. But the Council concerned itself mainly with the problems of a housing program for a new sorority court and a May Day project in cooperation with the CICA.

Social highlight of the Council's year centered on the Pan-Hellenic ball given in January at which the members were introduced. Following its usual practice of awarding a scholarship cup to the sorority with the highest scholastic average, the Council presented the coveted award to the Pi Beta Phi's last spring. CAROLINE HOUSE

TRI DELTS . . . TRUE TO FORM

Giant cans of red tomato juice . . . "of course, they were first on our back-to-school shopping list," we cried when we were greeted by Bobby's mournful countenance and Weeze's poster of our strategically located sorority house. To continue, chronologically speaking: . . . Mag Burke beams about the fine pledges we got after "Rush" . . . Dunc, WGA prexy, slaves away at orientation . . . Jane Peete struts through the pigskin season . . . Connie edits the first MAG, Carmichael lending support . . . Phyl, Woody, Mary Anne, Dunc, and Stu sponsor for JFC . . . we almost won at volley ball . . . the house on Franklin becomes a has-been . . . Dada keeps the last home-fire burning while Twitty directs moving traffic . . . Phi Delt welcoming serenades . . . "Hello, all you girls at the Tri Delt House" . . . weeks with bare rooms, cold radiators and disappearing furniture plus Upshaw's decorative cat skin . . . Sadie Hawkins Day and the "Cornfed Cuties" perform . . . Pat Hole, with beauteous maids, Betty Greve and Barbara Lynn, reigns supreme at the Yack Coronation Ball . . . Audrey and "B" freeze in the Northern Outpost . . . Christmas debutantes in our midst: Dunc, Carmack, Geadney and Greve . . . Sponsor Carrol, our claim to fame at the Orange Bowl . . . twenty-three "belles of the ball" at the gala affair honoring twenty-three pledges . . . initiation . . . Judy, pleased as Punch, takes possession of THE cup . . . Linda meets the snow crisis with scrambled eggs . . . Jim pias Marty in a kitchen drama enacted before the 11:00 p. m. milk parade . . . Stockton's rug arrives minus furniture from "Uncle Ralph" . . . and so we leave "Cannibal King" and "Dust on Our Tri Delta Moon" to next year's class . . . bidding "Adieu, adieu" to all girls under the stars of silver and crescent of gold.

INTERFRATERNITY

WALT BRINKLEY
President

After a rapid change of officers, Walt Brinkley finally assumed the chair for what seemed to be a satisfactory length of time to get the Interfraternity Council on the road to recovery.

With rush weeks three times a year instead of the customary one due to the influx of returning veterans, the IFC started its year by writing letters to other colleges inquiring about their methods of rushing and experimenting on rush week tactics in general. But the main function of the council was centered around abolishing some of the practices which in previous years have cast discredit on fraternities.

COUNCIL

Composed of two representatives from each of the twenty fraternities on campus, the Council resumed its practices of sponsoring the IFC Formal every year as well as presenting an Intramural Athletic Award.

Officers were: President, Walt Brinkley; Vice-President, Marriotte Stewart; Secretary, Pete Pully; Treasurer, Jim Burdin; and Chairman of the Rules Committee, Art Adams.

First Row:

Don Hinson, Jim Hedrick, Art Adams, Joe Gasenheimer, Art Aronson.

Second Row:

Bob Friedlander, David Taylor, Jim Burdin, Walt Brinkley, Marriotte Stewart, Pete Pully, Jim Booth.

Third Row:

Abe Moscow, Norman Silver, Ernest Hackney, Warren Rendall, Preston White, Bob Stockton, Jack Lackey.

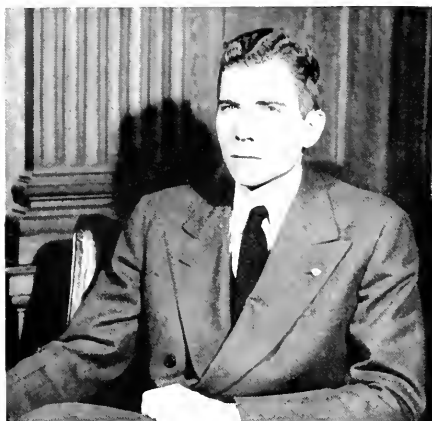

Fourth Row:

William Anderson, Bob Novins, Jack Davies, Bill Pritchard, Tom Kerns, Sam Winburne, Bill Walker, Bill Walston, Bob Judd.

BILL ANDERSON, President
"PARR-TEE. PARTY. PARTY. PARR-TEE"
BILL IN THE "WOOD" ROOM

Another grand year becomes the past
Recalling memories that always last—
Of Brother Anderson, the mighty "wheel"
Who piloted the chapter with a zeal
Comparable to Fulton's keeping of the books,
Or Toodle's efforts to obtain the looks
Of hungry coeds prone to gaze on Teddy,
(Although Austin is continually ready
To cheat the stork of all his just desserts)
Plus Brother Lamm's own roving eye for skirts.
Fashion charms the eye in "Cordell" Wolfe's attire,
Nor can we Comrade's union suits admire
As much as "Muscles" Reiser's handsome face,
Or Brother Mumper's slow deliberate pace,
A strong contrast to Wittmer's deft amours
And "Lulu" Abrendt's thousand paramours.
(Although there are some quieter wolves about,
Norris and Hedrick are not without
Their share of lovin', boodlin', and the like,
Better beware, they strike at night).
Let's not forget the parties and the play,
Nor all the bull we shot both night and day.
Let's make a toast with one more mug of beer
To all the fun we've had this Fiji year.

THETA PSI EPSILON

The Alpha Chapter of Theta Psi Epsilon, national women's chemistry fraternity, has accomplished much in its first year of existence. During Tuesday evening business meetings members heard interesting lectures on various fields of chemistry by university professors. They also learned from graduate students of the chemical research which is being conducted at Carolina. Theta Psi Epsilon held two initiation ceremonies during the year and further endeavored to bring a better coordination between the chemistry majors and the rest of the campus.

Officers for the year were: President, Ann Fields; Vice-President, Barbara Pennington; Secretary, Clara Leigh Kemper; and Treasurer, Shirley Rivers.

First Row: Mary Lloyd Brown, Jean Chesson, Anne Fields.

Second Row: Catherine Harris, Mary Ashby Kellam, Leigh Kemper.

Third Row: Jane Leonard, Doris Lyles, Thelma Jean Paolucci.

Fourth Row: Barbara Pennington, Laura Powers, Frances Privette.

CHI DELTA PHI

OLIVE ANN BURNS

Tau Chapter of Chi Delta Phi at the University has been concerned primarily with the stimulation of literary interest among the coeds. The chapter at Carolina was founded in 1941.

Highlights of the year's work were the opportunities to talk with Noel Houston and James Street, both writers of note, about the writing of novels. The Duke chapter of Chi Delta Phi was the guest of the local chapter when Noel Houston discussed The Great Promise. Also on the favorite list of doings for the sorority were visits to Dr. Phillips Russell's home for discussion of short stories, novels and other matters of literary interest.

Officers were: President, Olive Ann Burns; Vice-President, Marcella Harrer; Treasurer, Catherine Sloan; Secretary, Eleanor Craig.

KAPPA EPSILON

Kappa Epsilon sorority was founded at Iowa State University in 1921 as an honorary organization for women pharmacy students. The Lambda chapter was established at the University of North Carolina on January 21, 1941, and since that time has become a vital part of the School of Pharmacy.

Officers are: Tommie Holden, President; Fate Burnett, Vice-President; Emily Aliton, Secretary-Treasurer; and Florence Lee, Pledge Mistress. Kappa Epsilon's adviser is Miss Alice Noble.

● First Row: Emily Aliton, Sybil Austin, Evelyn Blanchard, Patsy Burgiss. ● Second Row: Fate Burnett, Peggy Costner, Doris Gilliam, Betty Hanna. ● Third Row: Mary Harris, Doris Hawkins, Tommie Holden, Travis Hunt. ● Fourth Row: Florence Lee, Ellen Macon, Maryellen Milloway, Mildred Showalter. ● Fifth Row: Jean Snyder, Betty Yates.

RHO CHI

Rho Chi is the national honorary pharmaceutical society founded in 1922 to promote the advance of the pharmaceutical sciences, scholarship and good fellowship. The Xi chapter was established at Carolina in 1929.

Officers are: Tommie Holden, President, and Doris Bullard Hawkins, Secretary-Treasurer. Faculty members are: J. G. Beard, E. A. Brecht, H. M. Burlage, M. L. Jacobs, and I. W. Rose.

● First Row: Tommie Holden, Doris Hawkins. ● Second Row: Mildred Showalter, Allen Sinclair.

KAPPA PSI

● First Row: F. Stephens, M. L. Jacobs, I. W. Rose, H. C. McAllister. ● Second Row: R. H. Scaborn, T. Uzzell, J. Gabriel, R. Harrison, J. Stewart. ● Third Row: D. D. Claytor, A. M. Daughtridge, M. C. Hogan, D. Masengill, C. Clark, R. Hawkins, H. Rich, C. H. Sanders.

UNIVERSITY DANCE COMMITTEE

DR. E. L. MACKIE

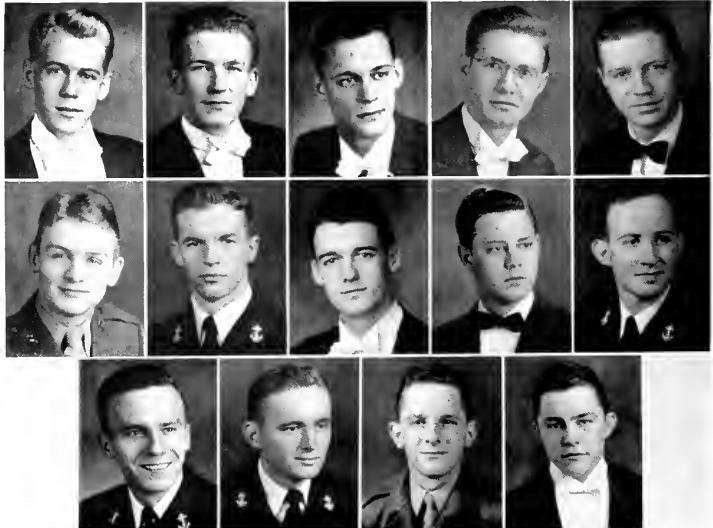

DR. H. K. RUSSELL

The University Dance Committee's work lies in aiding campus organizations in staging their dances. Its function is to advise, not to dictate, in the numerous details of dance preparation and execution. Dance Committeemen act as dance hosts and trouble-shooters for any occasion which may arise.

A major project of the committee during the past year has been to publicize its rules widely, particularly for the benefit of the vast numbers of new students entering Carolina.

With the end of the war campus social life has brightened, bringing more and bigger dances to fill week-end calendars and increasing duties for the committee. Returning from the service to rejoin the group are several pre-war members, including Charlie Vance, Bob Stockton, DeVan Barbour and John Davis.

• Top: Bill Walston, Charles Warren, Warren Ficklen, Allan Pannill, Jared Fox. • Middle Row: John Lineweaver, Blair Gammon, DeVan Barbour, Merriotte Stewart, Boots Walker. • Bottom: Archie Hood, Jim Bardin, Wayne Breneogen, Bob Stockton.

GERMAN CLUB

This year the German Club again took on its post-war spark as it brought to the campus dances similar to the gala week-end events of 1941. During the war it was impossible for the club to secure name bands for its three big dances yearly, but lifting of the Dance Expenditures Bill last spring gave it the go-ahead signal.

The Georgia Tech week-end in September presented a fair picture of Carolina before the war, but the social highlight of the year brought Charlie Spivak and his band to the campus for Midwinters February 1-2. The club ended a successful year with its June finals, carrying out its aim to bring Carolina dances back to pre-war standards.

Four new fraternities joined the German Club this year — Pi Kappa Alpha, Delta Psi, Phi Gamma Delta, and Phi Delta Theta. Other members are Beta Theta Pi, Alpha Tau Omega, Zeta Psi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Nu, Kappa Sigma, Kappa Alpha, and Sigma Chi.

LISTENING TO 'EM GO

Dances of a sort have always been a must for Carolina men and women. Because of disorganization of active dance groups, juke boxes and local bands had to satisfy for the most part.

SHERWOOD'S VOCALIST GETS A BIT OF ATTENTION

The Grail stepped up with the first big dance week-end with Bobby Sherwood a la "Elks Parade" blasting forth from Woollen Gym. Feature of the Grail dance was the announcing to the campus of the Yackety Yack beauty contest winners.

The German Club started off with Jimmy Fuller and everyone seemed to have a fine time, but then for mid-winters came Charlie Spivak . . . a lotta moola . . . but much fine music was well worth the price. Sweet trumpeting was the order of the day in the Tin Can, used for a dance the first time in many a moon.

The queen, her two maids of honor and eleven attendants were chosen by vote of the coeds. Only senior women were eligible, and identity of the winners was withheld from the campus until close to time for the festivities.
